QUESTIONS AT THE AGM

Those who attended the AGM will remember that two members raised some points on the Internal Rules and Regulations. They felt that the Rules should be amended in the same forum as the Statuts ie an EGM and that it should be clearer in the Rules that Members have a right to put forward proposals before the AGM or during the proceedings. This article sets out how I came to the decision to permit different forums for amending the Statuts and the Internal Rules and Regulations.

The committee of the 1905 Association Actes 6 gave us a lot of help and guidance and I used a reference book "Créer et Gérer son Association" written by a person with a great deal of experience of 1901 Associations and verified by a team of qualified experts.

The 1901 law itself gives no guidance about which type of general meeting is appropriate for the amendment of Statuts.

The reference book advised, under the heading "La procedure de modification des statuts", "Généralement, les modifications statutaires sont adoptées à la majorité par les membres réunis en assemblée générale, mais il est possible que la responsabilité en relève du seul conseil d'administration par exemple." Here, it is saying that modifications of the Statuts are generally approved by the members in a general meeting but that it is possible that the responsibility can be taken on by the committee alone.

Actes 6 advised, first, that giving the committee the sole responsibility for amendments to the Statuts was not democratic and could lead to them being amended to give advantage to one person or group of persons. They felt that the size of BAV and its charitable objectives dictated a need to allow the members to approve all amendments. Its second piece of advice was, because all amendments to the Statuts must be registered with the Préfecture together with the minutes of the meeting at which they were approved, they should be approved by a general meeting specially convened to deal only with the amendments – an Extraordinary General Meeting.

Moving on to the Internal Rules and Regulations. The reference book said "Il peut être amendé sur simple décision du conseil d'administration. Pour qu'il puisse avoir force de loi pour ses adhérents, il doit être approuvé et connu par tous. C'est pourquoi il est préférable que le règlement intérieur soit approuvé par l'assemblée générale, puis distribué à tous les membres de l'association et affiché dans ses locaux." This makes it clear that, in order to have any legal effect, these rules must be approved by the members in a general meeting – any general meeting. Such rules only have to be registered with the Préfecture if the object of the association is public benefit (public in general, not a specified part of it). So, the Internal Rules and Regulations can be amended by any general meeting. By leaving it this way then any necessary amendments could be dealt with by an AGM or an EGM. The Committee decided that the wording of the rule should remain as it is.

One member raised the point that notice for an EGM should be longer than 7 days. The Committee did not agree with this. An EGM could be called to oust the Chairman or other officer or committee member and to appoint a replacement which the Association might need to do in haste. In reality, the notice would always be longer than 7 days, 7 days is the minimum.

The two members who spoke raised overlapping points which, basically, related to how Members can make proposals at the AGM. They both felt that the right should be enshrined in the Internal Rules and Regulations, along with a procedure, so that it is clear to Members that they have such a right.

No general meeting can approve, sanction or agree anything which does not appear on the agenda which is circulated to all Members. So, any "motions" or "proposals" would either have to be submitted enough time ahead of the proposed GM date to enable the Committee to consider them and include them on the agenda or, if put forward at the meeting itself, would have to be recorded for discussion by the Committee for inclusion on the agenda for the next GM. This is the main reason why I, personally, do not like "Any Other Business" as an agenda item because it implies that there can be further business which is not being notified to members. This cannot happen. But, in order to make it clear that Members can put proposals forward, the Committee has decided to replace "Matters of Interest" with "Members Ideas and Suggestions".

One Member suggested that Rule 6(a) should be amended by the addition of "Any Member who wishes to make a proposal at the AGM shall submit the proposal in writing to the Secretary two months before the AGM". The Committee has agreed that a separate rule should be added but that the deadline should be "two months before the AGM or 31 December whichever is the earlier" to ensure time for discussion. The existing 7 day rule re questions relates to the content of the AGM papers and that rule will be amended to make that clear.

The Committee agreed that it should be clear in the Rules that Members could put forward proposals at the AGM itself and that those proposals would be discussed by the Committee to determine whether they should be put to the vote at the next AGM. Suitable wording will be added to the new rule referred to in the last paragraph.

Cheating on your plate?

Not a reference to the cholesterol content or calories on your dinner plate, that affects you alone, the plate in question is the registration plate on your motor vehicle. The vast majority of us drive French registered vehicles of French origin, or correctly imported ones from the UK. However it is noticeable that UK plated motor vehicles are growing in number with NO UK road tax on display but with a French insurance windscreen sticker and a French contrôle technique on display.

The UK DVLA website clearly states that any vehicle taken out of the UK for more than 12 months is considered exported, you should advise the DVLA. Their website clearly stating "Your vehicle will become subject to the legal requirements of the new country when exported."

For vehicles that are brought over for less than 12 months, they remain subject to UK law. The registered keeper must by law make sure the vehicle remains taxed while it is overseas. Providing you have a current MOT and Insurance it can be taxed while abroad. If you don't tax the vehicle and it is taken back to the UK untaxed the vehicle will need to be transported and not driven on its return to the UK and a Statutory Off Road Notification (SORN) declared immediately. A SORN cannot be made while the vehicle is abroad.

So to drive a car in France it must be fully registered in a European country. The OWNER must be traceable, the vehicle must have CT (MOT), insurance and tax (if necessary) in its country of registration. The UK plated cars seen with no road tax by default should have a SORN completed, but as it is illegal to do that while it is abroad, was it driven illegally to the ship or train? Owners seem to consider that as no road tax in France then no need to tax a UK plated car. Any insurance purchased by owners should read in detail ensuring that they are complying with all the small print details.

Cars not fully registered in the UK or France are on the road here illegally. In an accident police may not be impressed and insurance companies are keen to find a way out of paying. Everyone should be aware of their obligations and should take decisions in full recognition of the consequences of their actions.

House Insurance

Summer is fast approaching and we are all looking forward to opening the windows and allowing fresh air to come through our homes. Please remember that not everyone is honest. There are some individuals who will come into your home uninvited – especially when the doors are not locked.

Also, when you leave the property, even to go to the local shops, your insurance policy may not cover your property if your shutters are left open!! Please read the small print or talk to your agent for clarification.

Another first, a sponsored event

Always mindful of the effects of the current financial restrictions many Members are experiencing, your Committee has taken action to introduce a sponsor for our June Aups picnic. The sponsor is Currencies Direct, who were the first independent foreign exchange company outside the normal banking world.

At Aups they are contributing towards some of our costs, which will ensure more of the Members' financial contributions are available for the BAV Welfare Fund. On the day there will be Currencies Direct representatives in attendance, they are BAV members, and they will be organising a free champagne prize draw. The only stipulation for those entering the draw is that they must provide contact details on the draw ticket so that after the event Currencies Direct can contact them and provide further details of the cost effective foreign exchange and international payment service they can provide.

The menu and direction details are on page 3. Your reservation slips MUST BE returned to Jim North by Saturday 28 May.

Lunch and Quiz 'Crapulous'

Every Quiz we have run turns up an interesting or amusing question that tickles the fancy of those involved. When asked, "What is a crapulous person full of?" the laughter was spontaneous.

The Quiz at the Cafe de la Tour on 8 April had followed an enjoyable lunch and social gathering. Seven teams enthusiastically competed in the 9 round 45 total question competition. They were certainly not crapulous, they were driven by a desire to have the kudos of being announced the winners.

Team members contributed a total of 93€ in entry fees so were playing for a prize pot of 46.50€. After an hour and a half of entertainment and suitable asides about the Q&As the winners were "Are we there Yet," who, having managed to answer 34 questions correctly, promptly donated the winnings back to the BAV Welfare fund. A gesture loudly applauded by those present.

What is a crapulous person full of you may be wondering, alcohol is the answer and all present discovered that a group of bishops are called a bench! We will be back in the autumn and welcome all to join us.

Chairman's' Letter

Since the AGM is now in the past, suddenly there seems to be time for 'doing things'. I have spent many hours in my garden this month tidying up and getting ready for summer, and also dreaming of changes which are far too much hard work to start just now ... the sun is getting warmer, and the rosé is well chilled!

I repeat what I said at the AGM, once again to express my huge gratitude to your Committee, these 6 brave and upright men and women, for their clear thinking, their work and their support, their friendship, their camaraderie and their sense of humour and their wonderful husbands, wives and partners who do so much to share the load as well as put up with being abandoned not only for Committee Meetings but also lengthy 'phone calls at inconvenient moments and welfare visits.

It was a year of hard work and tumultuous decision-making for the Committee. Seven people, from differing backgrounds, education, work and life experiences, carrying the weight of responsibility of putting together a new organisation with the fair and unbiased judgement expected from you, the Members.

Luckily we are all educated and broad minded enough to be able to see and understand each others' point of view. We do have differences of opinion, and in turn each of us at some time, has to swallow and accept some decisions that we individually don't completely agree with. But that is what a Committee is about, to discuss and make informed decisions which will best cater for the majority without totally offending the minority. We know, it is impossible to please everyone all of the time.

The most noteworthy announcement made at the AGM is that Shirley Wrigglesworth has given notice that she will be standing down as Welfare Coordinator at the latest at next year's AGM.

Also, under the new Statutes Article 8b, in future, 1/3 of the Committee will resign each year and may or may not stand for re-election. So next March, Shirley Wrigglesworth has already given notice of her resignation from the Welfare role, and possibly the Committee as well. And if no-one else wants to resign then the two longest serving Committee Members will be standing down, and may or may not offer themselves for re-election: they are myself, and Clare Brown!

So perhaps while you are enjoying the lazy Provence summer, having friends to stay, playing a round of golf, even attending a BA function, you would give some positive thoughts towards serving on the Committee. It is not always hard work! It is also enormously satisfying to know that you are helping in a small way to improve the quality of life of our unfortunate welfare 'cases'.

Now is the time that we need 'new blood' on the Committee. We have as a group been working together for 2 years: we have accomplished an enormous amount of administration, but it is now time for new ideas. There is one vacant seat at the moment, and we can easily make room for a 'secondment' if he/she is 'learning the ropes' of the Welfare seat. Volunteers please!

Auriol Langen Chairman

Exchange rate for tax return

As all Members who are fiscally resident study their French tax declaration forms, one small but vital piece of information that they need is the 2010 average exchange rate. The exchange rate for 2010 which will be accepted by most tax offices is £1 = 1.1654€.

Events diary on website

Can we just remind Members who have internet access, early every month the BAV website at www.baofthevar.com is updated. To show this has been done, the homepage picture is changed and the wording under it is the month when it was done.

The space on the website enables us to include more advanced notice of items, see Coming Events section, which are pencilled in but not yet announced in the Newsletter.

One Member has recently enquired about the June picnic at Aups and why the date which is 4 June had not been circulated to Members. The date has been prominently displayed on the website since February, but not yet in the Newsletter due to lack of space in the Forthcoming Events column. It is fully prompted in this May issue, complete with the reservation slip.

For Members who do not have internet access just ring one of the Committee Members. If dates and venues are known we can advise you over the 'phone or let you know when things are sorted.

After the success of the two Calendars produced last year, we are now looking through the considerable archive of photos the group has amassed over the previous months. At our last meeting we had a preliminary viewing of contributions from members and selected nearly 30 photos which were contenders for inclusion in the 2012 edition.

However, not everyone in the group was represented at this meeting, so for those Digital Photography Group members who have not yet submitted their Var-themed photos please let us have them for possible inclusion. As a group we are very keen to get as many different perspectives on the Var as we can to add variety and breadth of interest to our calendars.
